

ABSTRACT

A process for delivering a polypeptide into a parenchymal cell in a mammal, comprising, transporting the polynucleotide into a blood vessel communicating with the parenchymal cell in tissue or organ of the mammal such that the polynucleotide is transfected into the parenchymal cell.